October 2023 Newsletter Musical Heritage Center aka... Fiddle & Pick October News; So sorry its a wee bit late!

Howdy All. October is a beautiful and a busy month! Finally getting to an Oct newsletter. So much extra work gets piled up and things get put on the back burner. On top of lesson planning and event planning. I try to keep up on getting supplies needed at the center, and weeding, and grounds keeping, cleaning, recycling and then there is all those little surprises that spring up.

For example, yesterday (I'm calling it skunk day; we have occasional ant's day or mice day in the course of the year, but this is a new experience!) While we were all teaching in our studios, and we started smelling a skunk 1:00 in the afternoon! Thought it was hit by a car, but this is daytime, and skunks are supposed to be nocturnal. It must have sprayed in the basement (the old root cellar), and the aroma was easing in through the ducts. Anyway, all is good now; but it was another thing to take care of . I'm so glad I didn't have to set a trap for the poor little critter and then wear a hazmat suit to transport him to the woods! Although this news blast is a wee bit late; it does have some very important info I would like to share with you.

Announcements: This Sat is Hoedown set up day where I load out all the tables, chairs, PA, Kitchen Items and Hoedown props out of Fiddle & Pick and load in at the Garage MaHal (our dear friends Barn).

This Sunday Oct 22 is our 16th annual Hoedown Concert (See flyer)

It's at 4:00 on location. A potluck reception just after. It's an amazing variety show. All levels and all ages. Some students are getting so advanced, it's amazing to hear them. The wee ones are learning much too. We Hope you can come join the fun and wear your hoe down attire. Some trad singalong songs for everyone too! If you are curious about learning an instrument, this is a good way to see many instruments and styles of music. You might want to try?

"Eighth Of January" Old Time Music Weekend is getting close to announcing more details. See the "SAVE THE DATES" flyer attached.
